RESULT OF THE PANIC

A Number of New York Firms Make Assignments.

ONE FOR TEN MILLION DOLLARS.

Three Banks Which Were Members of the New York Clearing House Unable to Meet the Claims of Other Banks Against Them—A Balance Against One of Them of Over a Million Dollars.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The opening of the stock market was extremely excited. There were good crowds in all the active stocks, and the change of tone in London created a general disposition to buy. The first prices were from 1 to 3½ per cent. higher than the closing of Monday and offerings, for the moment, were not heavy.

Then it was discovered that the Villard stocks were dropping, on which everybody tried to sell, and prices yielded 1 per cent. within five minutes after the opening. A panic was then started among the holders of the Villard stocks, and the prices for North American and Northern Pacific collapsed. One broker sold 15,000 shares of North American, and 50,000 shares were sold by other brokers, causing a decline of 8 per cent. Northern Pacific preferred declined 12 per cent.

The decline in the general market then stopped, and Northern Pacific preferred and North American became the centers of interest. North American opened at 27 and declined 1 per cent on general selling. It was successively sold down to 22 and then recovered to 23. Northern Pacific did not fluctuate so wildly.

The first failure of the day to be announced on the Stock Exchange was the firm of C. M. Whitney & Company, the representatives of many of the southern financial institutions, and the representatives of the Whitney National Bank of New Orleans. A large amount of stock was sold under the rule for their account. The firm of Whitney & Company was composed of Charles M. Whitney, Edwin S. Lorman and Frank M. Larchar. The offices of the firm are at 96 Broadway. The firm was largely interested in Toledo, Ann Arbor and North Michigan railroad stocks and bonds, as well as carrying a lot of Michigan and Hocking Coal and Iron company stock.

In many quarters in the dry goods trade great surprise was expressed when it became known that John T. Walker, Sons & Company, importers of silk, at 81 Pine street, had made a general assignment. Liabilities, $1,000,000. The firm had a capital of from [illegible] to $300,000, and its credit has ranked high.

The suspension of Decker, Howell & Company, was then announced on the Stock Exchange. They are stock brokers, and have made a general assignment.

Just before the close of business on the Stock Exchange the failure of David Richmond was announced.

The clearing house then passed a resolution directing the issue of clearing-house certificates to aid the money market. The certificates will be ready for the opening of business.

Rumors of trouble among banking institutions were current all day, but no one paid much attention to them, thinking that they were the usual emanations of bear minds. After the close, however, the facts developed were of the most alarming character. Three banks which were members of the New York Clearing House association were unable to settle the claims of the other banks against them. There was a balance against the Bank of North America of $1,400,000, which it was unable to settle.

The other banks were the North River and the Mechanics' and Traders'. How the heavy balance was created against the Bank of North America was a puzzle. It was thought that the firm of Decker, Howell & Company had overdrawn their account to that extent, but this could not be definitely ascertained. During the day the Mechanics' and Traders' bank made its settlements with the clearing house, and the other two banks received assistance from the other banks in the association and pulled through all right.

At the Bank of North America it was stated that the trouble was directly due to the account of Decker, Howell & Company, and that now the account of that firm was closed the bank was in a stronger position than ever.

The most important factor in the developments was the scarcity of money. Right up to the close it was in great demand, and ¼ per cent. and legal interest was charged in loans equal to 180 per cent. per annum. The fact and the troubles of the banks caused a special meeting of the clearing house association to be called, and after a long debate, it was decided to appoint a committee of presidents with authority to issue clearing house loan certificates in order to enable banks to settle balances between themselves.

These certificates will be based on bills receivable, collateral securities, cash assets and the united credit of the banks. This action is intended to distribute the reserves between the institutions. Where one bank is unable to settle its differences in cash it will deliver securities and assets to the certificate committee and if that committee accept the securities it will authorize the issue of certificates on them. It was hoped that this action will prevent any of the banks being forced to close their doors on account of the scarcity of money and at the same time the united action of the banks is expected to restore complete confidence.

The involved firm of John T. Walker, Sons & Company has been doing business under that title for half a dozen years or so. Mr. Walker, Sr., however, has been in the silk business for close on to a half century and the present partnership has practically existed for many years. The firm has done probably the second largest business in this particular line of dry goods trade of any house in the country and has been universally looked up to and respected. Of many men seen yesterday afternoon, there was not one who did not say that not the slightest suspicion or taint could attach to the firm in its dealings.

Mr. Joseph Walker said: "This embarrassment came upon us very suddenly. Up to Friday night we felt confident that we would be able to tide over the difficulty and make everything all right. This proved impossible, and we were obliged to make the assignment. That is the whole story. The cause of our failure can be attributed to a variety of circumstances, among which are prominent the great stringency in the money market and a general falling off in prices. The recent tariff legislation has not [illegible] with it."

Mr. Walker said that the [illegible] firm's paper was held by [illegible] banking houses. Among these he mentioned Morton, Bliss & Company, Brown Brothers & Company, and the Bank of British North America.

The cause of the failure is now said to be the inability of Nightingale Brothers and Knight, of Paterson, N. J., silk manufacturers, to liquidate their liability to the firm. According to Assignee Ryles, the Paterson firm owes the estate of John T. Walker & Son $110,000, of which the sum of $100,000 is overdue. The active capital of Walker & Son for the past two years has been about $300,000, so that they were unable to withstand the loss arising from the non-payment of Nightingale Brothers and Knight. The firm has been carrying the heavy load for the past four years, and whenever the Paterson firm was unable to meet its obligations it was taken care of.

Owing to the tight money market and the suspicion concerning silk paper, caused by several recent failures, the firm was unable to get its usual accommodations and suspended payment.

The liabilities are about $1,100,000 and the nominal assets about $1,500,000, composed of $500,000 in the merchandise and [illegible] worth of accounts and bills receivable, of which over $100,000 is due from Nightingale Brothers & Knight.

Decker, Howell & Company made an assignment to William Nelson Browwell. The firm was considered very wealthy. It had been identified for years with the movements of the Villard stocks. The failure was considered the cloud that had been hanging over the market, and after it was announced a rally of 1 to 2 per cent. occurred.

Mr. Cromwell makes the following statement concerning the firm's affairs: "The liabilities are about $10,000,000, and the assets, at the present market price, largely exceed that sum. The liabilities are due almost entirely to banks and bankers on loans made and are well secured. The cause of the suspension was the inability of the firm to borrow the necessary amount of cash required in the day's business. The firm's transactions were very large, it being necessary to borrow several million daily. The firm had abundant collateral and it was not for lack of security, but the inability to make it available that caused the crash.

"As the securities are of a special line there may be a disposition among the creditors to sacrifice them on the market, but such a course would be suicidal. The character of the securities show that their price on the market is far below their actual value, and if creditors have the good judgment to hold their securities they will be amply protected."

The firm of Decker, Howell & Company was identified, not only with the Villard stocks, but with the Standard Oil interests as well, and also carried the accounts of the biggest stock operating firm in Chicago.

After the failure of the firm was announced, sales of stock under the rule for its account were made in Edison general electric stock which forced the price down to 65, a decline of 2½ per cent from Monday night's close. A large amount of Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific common and preferred, North American, Manitoba, Western Union, Wisconsin Central and Missouri Pacific was also sold under the rule for this firm.

Harry L. Davis, merchant tailor, No. 257 Greenwich street, made an assignment yesterday to Frank Phillips with a preference of $2,000 to the assignee. Liabilities, $16,000; assets, $7,000.

Crowds of Wall street men were at the Windsor last night and discussed the situation in the street. An air of relief was visible everywhere and the general opinion prevailed that the action of the clearing house looking to the issuing of certificates will avert a panic and prevent many failures.

At the Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The panic in Wall street caused some apprehension in the treasury department and the situation was closely watched. A few appeals were made to Secretary Windom to come to the relief of the market, but these appeals were not formidable and the day closed without the treasury department taking any action in the matter. In fact it is thought improbable that Secretary Windom will take any action, other than that now open, for the relief of the tightness of the money market.

Under the treasury circular of Oct. 9, last, four-and-a-half per cent bonds are redeemed upon presentation, and yesterday $67,500 were bought under its provisions, making a total redeemed since Oct. 9, of [illegible]. This avenue of relief is open and will continue to be. It is not probable that the price will be raised or that four per cent. bonds will be purchased at the high rate demanded by bondholders. At the close of business yesterday the available cash in the treasury was a little less than [illegible], with about [illegible] in National banks and $15,000,000 fractional silver [illegible]. To change to a new policy of buying bonds now would cramp the treasury and cut the balance down uncomfortably close. From an authoritative source it is learned that this will not be done at present for two reasons.

First, the uncertainty of the amount needed for pensions; second, it is to be ascertained by experience whether the tariff law will increase or decrease the revenue. The agitation against the tariff law may prevent importation in anticipation of its repeal.

Then uncertainties make a new departure at this time dangerous, and from an authoritative source it can be stated that none will be made. The official statement is made that within the past four months $70,000,000 in excess of the receipts, have been paid out of the treasury, a sum greater in excess of receipts than was ever paid out in an equal period in time of peace in the history of the government. The aggregate amount paid out was over $164,000,000, of which $50,000,000 was for pensions.

Failure in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—The failure of Narr & Freena, a prominent Fourth street firm of brokers, was announced yesterday afternoon. The firm has been doing quite a large business and has been long of the market recently. The failure was due to the failure of Decker, Howell & Company, in New York. One member of the firm said he thought that $25,000 would cover their shortage.

The London Stock Market.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—At the opening of the Stock Exchange yesterday the market seemed likely to justify the worst fears as to the effects of increased stringency of money and difficulty of settlement. Stagnation and gloom prevailed for the first hour, after which some relief was experienced.

PLAYERS' NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Some Important Action Taken at a Meeting Held in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 15.—At yesterday's meeting of the Players' National League, the championship pennant was awarded to the Boston club.

After ascertaining that all the clubs, excepting Pittsburg and New York were willing to remain members of the Players' League, the meeting adjourned until 5 o'clock in the evening.

At the evening meeting the Pittsburg and New York clubs formally presented their resignations, which were ordered to be held over for the sixty days required by the constitution before final acceptance.

An election was then held, resulting in the choice of Charles A. Prince, of Boston, as president; A. L. Johnson, of Cleveland, vice president and F. H. Brunel, of Chicago, secretary and treasurer.

After Messrs. Johnson, Prince and Ward were appointed as a conference or arbitration committee to settle disputes, etc., Cincinnati was admitted to membership in the League. Applications were also filed for the location of clubs in Buffalo, Washington, D. C., and Detroit.

The meeting then adjourned for the day.

It is reported that during the meeting the representatives of the Pittsburg and New York clubs were unmercifully berated for the weakness they have displayed. It is also stated that although Pittsburg and New York may have consolidated with the National League, they will be unable to deliver the goods as it is believed that all of the players will stick to the Brotherhood.

CHINESE ASSASSINS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—Terror reigns in the Chinese quarter of this city. The members of the Suey Ong Tong company and of the Hop Sing Tong society are on the lookout to take each others' lives. The guage of battle was thrown down the 1st, when Wong Fook Choy was shot and killed in the Washington Street theater by Dick Ah Ting while defending an actor from blackmail. The murderer, who was a member of the Suey Ong Tongs, escaped. Bah Guy, of the latter society, was shot and killed on Washington street the 3d, and a comrade, Hi Choy Pu, was set upon and badly beaten at the same time.

Not content with taking a life for the one which they had lost the Hop Sing Tongs exacted another, and the night of election day Hark Ah Yoe was shot, and now lies at the receiving hospital in a dying condition.

With the exception of the first murder the police are at sea as to who did the shooting. The Chinese consul has addressed an order to the warring organizations, commanding them to refrain from quarreling, but detectives who have charge of the Chinese criminal service believe that several more shooting affrays will result before the two societies will consider that full justice has been meted out.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Opening Session of the General Assembly.

POWDERLY'S ANNUAL ADDRESS.

He Recommends That the Different Assemblies Discuss the Question of High Tariff and Free Trade—A Review of the Central Strike.

DENVER, Nov. 12.—The general assembly of the Knights of Labor convened in annual session yesterday, grand Master Workman Powderly presiding. Over 200 delegates were present. Mr. Powderly read his annual address, at the conclusion of which the assembly adjourned for the day for the purpose of giving the committee on credentials time to prepare their report. But two contests were reported—one from Massachusetts, and the other from Florida.

In his address Mr. Powderly reminded the delegates that on the 28th of December the organization will have been in existence twenty-one years. "For years, during this time," Mr. Powderly said, "the most important of a series of questions that has agitated the people of all nations is that of tariff and free trade.

"We have not as an order adopted the tariff or anti-tariff clause in our preamble, and I do not advise such a thing now. We should, however, throw open the doors of our assemblies for the discussion of this great problem so that our members may become educated in the basic principles of protection and free trade. While we do not allow the question inside of our sanctuaries, our members are asked every four years in the United States and every five years or oftner in Canada to register their votes either in favor or against protection. My recommendation is that on and after the first day of January, 1891, it shall be permissible for local assemblies to discuss the question of high tariff and free trade. By putting the question in this shape which will bring the greatest good to the greatest number, high tariff or free trade, we do not commit the order to either school, and yet allow our members to take up for discussion and agitation that vital question."

Upon the question of maintaining legislative committees, Mr. Powderly thought that if the assembly decided to maintain them, it should also decide what measures such committees shall advocate. He opposed making any change in the constitution except such as will reconcile conflicting clauses and make plain obscure passages.

"In the early part of the year," Mr. Powderly continued, "information came to me that members of the order employed by the New York Central railroad, and under the jurisdiction of District Assembly 246, were growing restive under the treatment received at the hands of the officials of the company. Individual effort in the direction of a majority ameliorating conditions that were not easy of endurance had proved abortive, and when the aid of men of influence was invoved it usually turned out to be the same. Public officials were appealed to to approach the officials of the New York Central and intercede for the workmen, that they might receive better treatment in the matter of wages and regulation, but nothing ever came of it.

"The public press, from Buffalo to New York, was, with but few honorable exceptions, under the influence of the Vanderbilt system. Whenever an editor decided to travel east or west, he applied to the president of the company and was granted a pass for himself and friends. Whenever the interests of the company required it, these papers would always respond and publish whatever was presented to them. With the chosen servants of the people traveling on passes of the company, with the editors of the papers along the road subsidized in the same manner, it became impossible for the workmen to get the public ear or place their grievances before the officials of the company without subjecting themselves to dismissals."

The grand master then went into a lengthy review of the Central strike, giving all the correspondence that passed between himself and Master Workman Lee, of Albany, and stating his reasons for recommending that the strike be inaugurated.

Continuing he said: "During the Central strike we had an opportunity to learn who our friends were among the newspapers, and found that they were exceedingly few. We were given quantities of counsel, warning and censure. Many of the papers that were friendly to us did not seem to understand the situation or the necessities of men who work for low wages.

"Since the Central strike ended there were rumors of another one on the Erie railway, and the papers began to show that there was no necessity for a strike on that road for the managers and workmen were working in harmony. There will always be harmony between the employer and employe when the former has it in his power to dictate what the employe shall eat, drink, and wear. When the employes can control the market he will control the men. When the employer has a monopoly of the market he has also a monopoly of the harmony that our papers prate about so much. The tiger is always harmonious with the lamb after the former has carefully picked the bones of the latter. We saw the editor of a New York daily paper and the president of the New York Central road operating the raising of a fund to feed men and women in Ireland who have been robbed through the same diabolical system as that which is now beginning to rob the workmen of America."

In conclusion Mr. Powderly strongly advocated the passage of a law securing to both sexes equal rights. He favored the acceptance of the invitation from the Farmers' Alliance to send delegates to their next convention, and the co-operation of the Knights of Labor with the various railroad organizations in the work of federation.

Last night a monster public reception was tendered the delegates. Speeches were made by Governor Routt, Mayor Londoner, Mr. Powderly and others.

FOREIGN HAPPENINGS.

A Railway Accident in Which Eight Lives are Lost—Other Events.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—News has been received here of a terrible accident on the Great Western railway at Norton Fitz-Warren station, near Tranton, yesterday morning. A heavily laden goods train crashed into a special passenger train from Plymouth, which was conveying to London the passengers from the Cape of Good Hope, who had arrived by the the steamer Norham Castle. Twelve persons are reported killed and eight injured, several seriously. The railroad company promptly dispatched relief trains with a large number of physicians on board.

The special train, bearing from Plymouth to London the passengers of the steamer Norham Castle, from the Cape of Good Hope, was made up of four passenger coaches, containing fifty passengers. It was pitch dark and a drenching rain was falling when, at 2 o'clock the special, running at the rate of fifty miles an hour, dashed by the little Somerset village, and into destruction.

The signal man on duty had forgotten that the heavily-laden Great Western goods train was standing on the up track to permit of the down mail passing on its way safely, as it did.

The danger signals were not displayed to the engineer of the on-coming special, and with all the momentum of its weight and tremendous speed the doomed train hurled itself upon the goods train in its path. The force of the collision was such that at the moment of the contact the first coach of the special was literally smashed into match wood.

Evictions in Ireland.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Dispatches from the scene of yesterday's evictions at Ardsberg, on the Olphert estates, in County Donegal, describe the pitiful occurrences usual on such occasions. Sixteen families, comprising one hundred persons, were evicted yesterday, and the process will go on until about 250 families are dispossessed. There was a squabble during yesterday's proceedings, caused by the activity of Mr. J. G. S. MacNeill, M. P., for South Donegal, in championing the interests of the tenants.

Mr. MacNeill chalked the sleeves of policemen who were particularly rough in handling the tenants, and warned them that he would cause them to be prosecuted for misbehavior. The marking was done in order to identify the officers, as the authorities refused to make them wear badges. The numerous English visitors who were present to witness the evictions held a meeting afterward, at which resolutions were adopted expressing their indignation over the affair.

The Times correspondent, in his account of the proceedings alleges that though in the houses where eviction was anticipated no food was found, two tons of potatoes were discovered in one dwelling whose occupants had expected to be disturbed.

The Czar's Crazy Uncle.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Harrowing accounts have been received of the condition of the insane Grand Duke Nicholas, now confined to Alupka in the Crimea. During one of his violent fits he nearly strangled an attendant who tried to calm him, so that the man's recovery is doubtful. The physicians admit that there is no prospect of saving the life of the grand duke, who is rapidly becoming a physical wreck. It will be recollected that he had charge of the cavalry under Gourko, at the late maneuvers in Volhynia, and went crazy at the close.

Professor Koch's Popularity.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—The emperor has summoned Professor Koch to a personal interview, desiring to learn the details of the results obtained by treatment of consumptives with the remedy discovered by the professor. It is stated that the treatment has proven efficacious beyond question.

A Frankfort telegram to The Berlin Post says that the emperor has made a gift of $250,000 to Professor Koch personally, and has given another $250,000 to endow a National institute at which the lymth used in the treatment will be produced.

Balfour Ill.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The health of Mr. Balfour, chief secretary for Ireland, is so far impaired that the tour of inspection of the distressed localities of Ireland will not be resumed at present. Mr. Balfour will proceed at once to the west of England, where he will devote himself for some time for recuperation.

Fifty Lives Lost.

PESTH, Nov. 12.—A ferryboat, overloaded with men, wagons and horses, capsized while crossing the river Waag near Bistritz, Hungary, yesterday, and fifty-five persons were drowned.

Another Great Storm in Ireland.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Welsh and Irish coasts are being swept by a furious gale, and great quantities of wreckage are being washed ashore.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Consul General Baiz, of Guatemala, has received a cablegram confirming the news of an uprising in Honduras. The cablegram further states that President Bogran had retired within two leagues of Tegucigalpa and was receiving the support of the rest of the republic. Order and complete peace prevailed in the rest of the Central American states, all assuming a neutral position in the matter, which is looked upon as unimportant and purely local.

Dwelling Not in Unity.

SHERWOOD, O., Nov. 12.—The ill-feeling which has for some time existed here between the German and English factions of the Reformed church, culminated last Saturday in legal proceedings being instituted by the Germans, and as a result the edifice was closed Sunday against worshipers, the key being in the possession of the county sheriff. Each faction has a preacher of its own, and excitement runs high. The presence of several officers is required to preserve order. It is feared the church edifice will be burned.

A Conspiracy Unearthed.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—The arrest of Blaney and Ranney, ticket brokers by the Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo officials has caused a sensation to be unearthed. It is a Mistake

To try to cure catarrh by using local applications. Catarrh is not a local but a constitutional disease. It is not a disease of the man's nose, but of the man. Therefore, to effect a cure, requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, expelling the taint which causes the disease, and imparting health.

ALAS!

How wretched is the man who has fallen a victim to Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, or diseased Liver, with all the horrible attendants. Look upon the picture. Poor man, being tired of dragging out a miserable existence, he is the picture of despondency, altogether, he is rather a forlorn specimen. Do we pity him? Of course; but at the same time feel assured that in a measure he is to blame for the bad state into which he has fallen. A sure, safe, speedy and easy cure can be found in Simmons Liver Regulator—Nature's own remedy. No mercury or deleterious drugs, not unpleasant to the taste, and always reliable—just such a remedy as you can pin your faith to without a shadow of disappointment. Read the testimonial, don't take our word for it:

"I have been subject to severe spells of Congestion of the Liver, and have been in the habit of taking from 15 to 20 grains of calomel, which generally laid me up for three or four days. Lately I have been taking Simmons Liver Regulator which gave me relief, without any interruption to business." J. HUGG, Middleport, Ohio.

We fear there isn't a due amount of grief over the defeat of Ingalls in Kansas. The democracy never did especially like the Kansas Senator. Of course M. Halstead shed a small tub of tears.

There comes an occasional business failure in Marion but they are few, very few. Indeed most of those who do fail come to that fate as the only logical result. The success of business ventures in this city is a matter for congratulation.

If the talk of the present has anything to do with the politics of 1892 it may be well to keep an eye on Mr. Blaine. The great republican leader is more of a leader today than ever. The shattered elements of the republican party, where the recent cyclone was the worst, are crying for the reciprocal protectionist. The course of events may lead to another Blaine-Cleveland contest.

Our friend Jim Swinnerton, who now resides in Texas and whose exhuberant joy over the democratic whirlwind is as extensive as the Lone Star State majority, sends us a copy of the St. Louis Globe Democrat, with a column of bright paragraphs commented upon.

We quote a few:

If there is anything that the democrats haven't carried, it must have been nailed down or red-hot.

The republican party was prepared for a gentle tap of reproof, but instead of this it seems to have been struck by a pile driver.

In politics, as in war, it is sometimes necessary to lose one battle in order to gain another and more important one.

The last paragraph is a soother to the defeated forces. It should be remembered the great St. Louis paper quoted is a republican tariff reform sheet.

Good Points of the Indians.

I do not want to be misunderstood as saying that there is nothing artificial or conventional in the social system of our typical barbarian. This would not be strictly true. Nevertheless it is refreshing to dwell among a comparatively simple people—a people whose etiquette is easily learned and based upon an instinctive sense of propriety; who know no prearranged division into classes; whose every day hospitality is not determined by the desire for or the ability to afford display, but solely by the actual need of the chance guest. It is delightful to hear people come straight to the point, tell home truths, talk frankly and ask frank questions, call a spade a spade and be as unconscious as a child of any possible motive for doing otherwise.

A naive curiosity, a strong sense of humor, a childlike abandon to the simple pleasures of the hour, a responsive and receptive quality of mind, and real courtesy of manner, are all characteristic of our barbarian in his hours of social relaxation. He has his faults, but these are always en evidence; what we have determined for once frankly to consider is, not what the poor Indian lacks, but in what he actually surpasses us.—Elaine Goodale in Popular Science.

Too Many for an Irish Landlord.

An Irish landlord relates that one of his tenants came to him before his departure and asked to have his cottage enlarged.

"Sure," he said, "it do be too small already, an' me family does be needin' more room."

"But, Francis," replied the landlord "you've not been married very long. How old is your oldest?"

"Faith, they're 8 years."

"They?"

"Yis. Two av them. Twins."

"Ah! And what's the age of the next?"

"They're six, yer honor."

"They?"

"Yis. Twins."

"Good Lord! Have you any more?"

"Yis. The nixt do be three years."

"Boy or girl?"

"Both, sor. Twins."

"Francis, this won't do."

"So I thought, sor, but there was only wan in the last [illegible] year old."

"Well," sighed the landlord, "I'm afraid I shall have to enlarge your cottage."—New York Sun.

The Longest Passage on Record.

The British ship Hospodar, Capt. Thomason, arrived in port Oct. 16 after a passage of 474 days from London, England, via R[illegible] 191 days and Valparaiso 6 days. The passage of the Hospodar is the longest one ever made by a vessel between these two ports. She left London on June 28, 1889, and on Dec. 27 was reported at Rio Janeiro with rigging damaged and the captain sick. On Dec. 30 word was received that the vessel had been dismasted. The captain went home and the mate, Thomason, took command. New rigging was sent out from England, and after refitting the Hospodar sailed on March 18 for this port. On Aug. 5 she put into Valparaiso and sailed again the same day. Capt. Thomason states that he does not know exactly where the vessel was when she was dismasted, as the captain took her logbook home with him. He says that he put into Valparaiso, being short of provisions.—San Francisco Call.

Paresis, that dread disease of the brain, is gradually doing its fatal work, and, according to the statement of Dr. Noble, the superintendent of the asylum, who has attended Tony since he was committed to the institution, the days of the poor fellow are numbered. Dr. Noble expressed the opinion to a visitor at the asylum, who once knew Tony, that the latter can scarcely survive six months longer, and paralysis of the brain may result at any moment and be followed by death shortly afterward.

The contest over the will of the late Mrs. Tony Hart will be renewed before Surrogate Rollins shortly, when some interesting evidence regarding the bequests and the reason why no provision was made for Tony will be brought out. The fund raised at the benefit performance, and placed in the hands of Frank W. Sanger and A. M. Palmer, the theatrical managers, as trustees, is used to pay Hart's expenses at the asylum.—New York Telegram.

Keeping Cider Sweet.

Cider to be kept unfermented should be made as late in autumn as possible, as it would be difficult to keep from fermenting when made early in the season. November made cider, if bunged up tight and stored where a temperature near the freezing point can be maintained, will probably keep sweet indefinitely. Some people put in a half pound or a pound of mustard seed to the barrel of cider and others use sulphite of lime in the same way. The old time method of scalding is considered by many people one of the best and least objectionable methods.

We see this described as follows: When the cider has slightly fermented it should be drawn or dipped from the casks where it has been standing to settle into large copper kettles or an old copper still, and be heated just up to the boiling point and no longer, when it should be again put into open casks to settle and become cold. It will then be ready to be tightly bunged in barrels and stored away. During the heating a large quantity of scum will rise to the top to be skimmed off, and during the cooling most of the impurities still held in solution will be deposited as sediment in the bottom of the casks.—Popular Gardening.

Mr. Beecher's "Account Books."

I was talking with Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher a few days ago regarding the widely copied report that some account books kept by Mr. Beecher of his farming and domestic expenses had been rescued from a pile of house rubbish and were about to be published. "There is no truth in the report whatever," said Mrs. Beecher. "Why, Mr. Beecher was the last man in the world to keep such things as account books. He never kept any in his life, for he had not the patience for it. I kept all the accounts he had occasion for. Such a thing as an account book was never among his effects, and none, therefore, could have been unearthed. I have no idea how the report started, but you can deny in toto." I am sorry to spoil a very good literary paragraph, but these are the facts.—Edward W. Bok's Letter.

Air Ships to Be Operated by Electricity.

The advocates of the possibility of navigating the air by means of electricity have taken the first step toward putting their ideas into practical shape by the formation of a company with a capital of $20,000,000 having for its object the building and operating of electrical air ships. The company is to carry on its work in Chicago and promises to have a car ready in six months. The proposed ship resembles the hull of an ordinary sea vessel. It requires only two men to operate it. The motive power is supplied by storage batteries, which work a system of wings and propellers, and also act as ballast. The driver or motorman or "pilot" takes his place in front of the car, and controls its course by a series of levers and switches.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

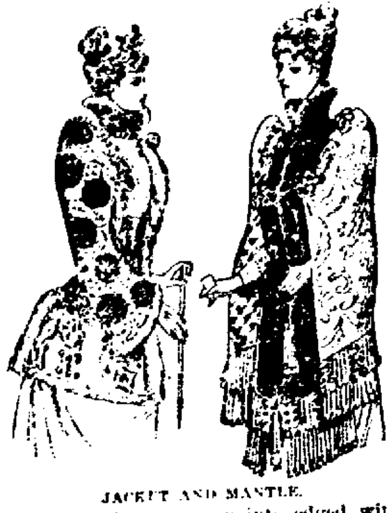
WHAT SHALL WE WEAR?

FASHIONS THAT ARE APPROVED AT HOME AND ABROAD.

The Latest Jackets, Mantles and Long Cloaks—Great Variety in the Styles. Ostrich and Peacock Feather Trimmings a Conspicuous Feature.

Mantles are difficult to choose this year. The modes are so bizarre. One made in matelasse of black velvet had the merit of being new and suitable to the wants of fashionable women. It had long narrow matelasse ends in front, bordered with ostrich feathers and edged with tassels of the same. These are quite new. There was an oversleeve of black velvet, split into two points, reaching to the elbow, and a velvet collar, which was continued to the waist in narrow points, edged with feathers, but not standing up too high. The back was cut as a jacket, and to the edge of the side pieces square flap pockets were sewn, trimmed with feather tassels.



JACKET AND MANTLE.

Fashionable cloth jackets are likely to be long. A good example had military braidings across the front, fastened with cross cords and barrel buttons, but the sides were lined with musquash, which has all the appearance of sealskin, at half the cost, and if desired could be thrown open, showing the revers of the fur.

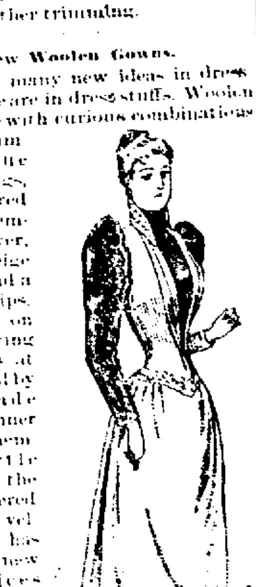
In Paris short, straight cloaks are worn, while English women show a fancy for long, loose mantles, made with box plaits at the back, starting from the shoulder seams and drawn in at the waist with a belt.

Our cut presents a three quarters length jacket in silk, with brocaded "frise" velvet sleeves. The trimmings consist of ostrich feathers and dull silk passementerie; also a mantle in black and gold matelasse and velours, with yoke and long fronts, trimmed with passementerie and chenille fringe.

Long cloaks designed for carriage wear are extremely handsome. A conspicuous feature of all of them is the profusion of feather trimming. A particularly elegant long cloak recently designed is in dove colored corduroy cloth, trimmed with jeweled gold galon; the high collar and fronts are edged with peacock and heliotrope feather trimming; the lining is quilted in flowered silk. Another cloak shows a very high collar of velvet, edged with ostrich feather tips and bordered down the front and sleeves with feather trimming.

The New Woolen Gowns.

There are as many new ideas in dressmaking as there are in dress stuffs. Woolen gowns are made with curious combinations—gray, for example, with blue velvet trimmings, or beige covered with fine cord embroidery all over, made with beige silk sleeves, and a fulling at the hips, the skirt cut on the cross, having small flounces at the hem headed by rouleaux, made after the manner of a French hem. A plain myrtle green cloth, the front embroidered with cord and velvet applique, has one of the new long bodices which are likely to be much worn this winter. The dress itself ends just below the waist line, but is supplemented by an under basque of green velvet. The sleeves have three slashings at the top of the same, fastened at the wrist with two buttons.



GRAY CHEVIOT WALKING DRESS.

The attractive walking dress shown in the cut is in gray cheviot with velvet sleeves and waistcoat. Medici collar with steel trimmings and a band of soft gray fur around the skirt.

PHYSIOLOGY AND HYGIENE.

A Country Where Massage Is the Daily Rule and Fine Physiques Abound.

One of the secrets of the fine physiques of the people of Japan lies in the universal use of the massage treatment. The blind men are the masseurs of Japan. They are known as the shampooers, and the trade of shampooing is given entirely over to them. They are organized into a great trade guild, have their offices, their fixed prices and their rules of labor, and they ply their trade in every city and village of the country.

Every night, says a writer in The Philadelphia Ledger, you will hear the shrill whistle which forms their street cry outside your door, and if you are of the taste of the ordinary Japanese you will call one of them in and give your tired body into his hands. From long training they understand the location of every muscle and every nerve, and with deft fingers they will go over your body as it lies semi naked on the floor and press each atom until you feel as though you were being mashed to a pulp, but endure the sensation knowing that you will awake a new man, with every force revivified and every muscle renewed. Every Japanese goes through this process every day, and in the cases of the poorer people the shampooing is often done by a daughter or a wife.

The ideal poor man's wife is she who goes over her husband's frame every evening, after his hard day's work, and shampoos his weariness into rest. This exercise brings about a uniformity of muscular development, and in addition to it comes the daily hot bath, which keeps the skin in perfect condition. We have the idea that the hot bath is weakening. It does not seem to be so for the Japanese, for every man, woman and child of the 38,000,000 people in the kingdom is thus parboiled every day, and the average strength is greater than that possessed by the cold bathers of the United States.

The Air We Require.

The following computations have been made in regard to the amount of air necessary for the average adult: In each respiration an adult inhales 1 pint of air. A healthy man respires 16 to 20 times a minute, or 25,000 times a day; a child 25 or 35 times a minute. While standing the adult respiration is 22 times per minute; while lying down, 13. The superficial surface of the lungs, i. e., of their alveolar space, is 200 square yards. The amount of air respired every 24 hours is about 12,000 quarts. The amount of oxygen absorbed in 24 hours is 500 liters (about 744 grams). The amount of carbonic acid expired in the same time is 400 liters (911.5 grams). Two-thirds of the oxygen absorbed in 24 hours is absorbed during the night hours, from 6 p. m. to 6 a. m.; three-fifths of the total is thrown off during the day. The pulmonary surface gives off 150 grams of water daily in the state of vapor.

An adult must have at least 350 liters of air in an hour. The heart sends 500 quarts of blood through the lungs every hour, or about 12,000 daily. The duration of inspiration is five-twelfths of expiration, seven-twelfths of the whole respiratory act. During sleep inspiration occupies ten-twelfths of the respiratory period.

Reading Aloud.

Eminent medical authority has commended the practice of reading aloud as a wholesome and invigorating exercise for mind and body. The late Sir Henry Holland said that persons who have a tendency to pulmonary disease should methodically practice "those actions of the body through which the chest is in part filled or emptied of air."

He advises that those whose chests are weak should read aloud at stated intervals, and even recite or sing, using due caution as to posture, articulation and the avoidance of excess.

"These regular exercises of the voice," he adds, "may be rendered as salutary to the organs of respiration as they are agreeable in their influence on the ordinary voice."

Premature Burial.

From time to time the subject of premature burial is revived by sensational tales which prove to be the result of a too vivid imagination on somebody's part. The London Lancet comforts its readers with this assuring paragraph. "So far as this country is concerned, there has not been a single authenticated case recorded of premature burial."

SOCIAL ETIQUETTE.

Polite Conversation and the Art of Leaving—The Amiable Visitor.

There are hostesses who show disinclination to allow a visitor to depart, and hang on to the skirts of conversation with unwearied persistence, says Harper's Bazar.

But the visitor is in better case. Very pardonably she may resume her seat, for that has a complimentary aspect, while for a hostess to sit down after her visitor has risen would signify hopelessness to the point of rudeness expressed, and be properly resented. No, one must stand until the last gasp, and even though that be the penalty.

There is a preeminence as guest that ought to inspire to the best efforts, and it is one that by virtue of the position especially belongs to the humblest of us all. The amiable visitor is not only at ease, but puts others at ease, and the simplest method is to oblige those who must conform to her slightest mention in the enjoyment of comfortableness, as when she brings to them the freshest, clearest news from the outside world.

There are many women who, when in visiting attire, feel the obligation of what they believe to be polite conversation. What one discourses about, however, [illegible]

"What's wanted, Kurnel Peabody?" asked the old man as he came over with his hat in his hand.

"Say, Eph, I want you to do me a little favor this evening."

"Sartin."

"I'll pay you for doing it."

"Bress you soul, sah."

"I want you to steal me a couple of young chickens and bring 'em to the store at 7 o'clock."

"Steal 'em fur you, sah?"

"Yes; I'll give you a dollar."

"All right, Mars Peabody, I'll have 'em dare by seben o'clock if I'm alive."

"What do you think of the nigger now?" asked the colonel as the old man moved away.

"I'm astonished."

"Well, you be on hand at 7 o'clock to see the chickens. He'll have 'em here."

So he did. He came to the back door of the store with a couple of pullets in a bag, and as he handed them over he said:

"Ize got 'em fur you, kurnel, an' dey is as fat as butter. Don't reckon you'll nebber say nuffin' 'bout it, eh?"

"Not a word, Eph. Here's your dollar."

I had no argument to make that evening. There were the nigger, the chickens and the dollar. What could I say? Next morning I went down to the colonel's office, and I had scarcely stepped inside when he called out:

"What do you think of the nigger now?"

"Anything new happened?"

"I should say so! Where do you think old Eph stole those chickens?"

"I have no idea."

Nervous women seldom receive the sympathy they deserve. While often the picture of health, they are constantly ailing. To withhold sympathy from these unfortunates is the height of cruelty. They have a weak heart, causing shortness of breath, fluttering, pain in side, weak and hungry spells, and finally swelling of ankles, oppression, choking, smothering and dropsy. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is just the thing for them. For their nervousness, headache, weakness, etc., his Restorative Nervine is unequaled. Fine treatise on "Heart and Nervous Diseases" and marvelous testimonials free. Sold and guaranteed by Denison & Co. and Hoberman & Co.

Mr. McMeans, of Santa Rosa, Cal., owns a horse that deserves a gold medal. One day last week the animal escaped from the barn yard and made its way to the orchard. Here he proceeded to eat apples from the nearest tree, and after it had eaten all within its reach the beast turned around and kicked the tree repeatedly, bringing down a shower of the luscious fruit.

Scrofula

Is the most ancient and most general of all diseases. Scarcely a family is entirely free from it, while thousands everywhere are its suffering slaves. Hood's Sarsaparilla has had remarkable success in curing every form of scrofula. The most severe and painful running sores, swellings in the neck or goitre, humor in the eyes, causing partial or total blindness, yield to the powerful effects of this medicine. It thoroughly removes every impurity from the blood.

Scrofula

"My little daughter's life was saved, as we believe, by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before she was six months old she had 7 running scrofula sores. One physician advised the amputation of one of her fingers, to which we refused assent. When we began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla, a marked improvement was noticed and a continued use of it her recovery was complete. And she is now, being seven years old, strong and healthy." B. C. Jones, Alna, Lincoln County, Me.

LET MARION SECURE IT.

The Warren Featherbone Co. Wants a New Location—A Chance to Move Forward.

By merest accident the new Board of Trade has been placed in pursuit of a splendid institution that may be induced to locate in Marion. On an incoming train Tuesday night T. A. Carson met a traveling man and exchanged a Masonic fraternal greeting. The traveling man proved to be F. H. Ray, of Youngstown, who represents the Warren Featherbone Co., of Chicago, manufacturers of corsets, waist and dress forms, dress stays and the like. The company's works are at Three Oaks, Mich., but the location has proven unsatisfactory and the decision has been made to move, and more than that the location must be on a direct railway line between Chicago and New York. The company had heard of Marion and thought of its attractiveness, but no consideration was ever given to coming here. Mr. Ray's business is selling goods and that was his mission here, but he incidentally told of the contemplated removal and, once here, he was soon before prominent members of the Board of Trade, answering inquiries and imparting information concerning the removal that leads to a hope of Marion standing a chance for the prize.

The company will guarantee to employ an average of 500 persons annually—men, women and younger persons. What a help that would be to the poor classes here and to manufacturing thrift generally! Other cities are offering inducements, but no action has been taken. Correspondence will ensue at once and Marion will strive to accomplish the task of winning the location. Members of the Board who have so far inquired into the matter are decidedly favorably impressed with the concern. That the people here will sanction a strong effort to secure it there is not one bit of doubt.

KILLED AT MARTEL.

William Crawford, of Newark, Ground to Death Under the Car Wheels.

A most horrible death occurred at Martel Tuesday evening between 4 and 5 o'clock. The victim was William Crawford, a young man aged about 19 years, from Newark, O.

The particulars of the accident as near as could be learned are about as follows. Crawford was attempting to get to Marion it is thought, for the purpose of securing a job at railroading, he having a brother-in-law on the Erie. Extra Erie 4 was pulling out that place at a rapid rate, when the young man attempted to board by the side step of a box car. In doing so he made a fatal step and slipped beneath the wheels. About six cars passed over his body and did their dreadful work, bruising, mutilating and breaking the limbs and head and body of the unfortunate boy. Death was instantaneous. The dissevered remains were picked up by those who were near enough to witness the awful sight and placed on the platform, and Coroner J. A. McMurray, of this city, was sent for and the identity of the victim discovered. Word was telegraphed the father of the young man at Newark, Thomas R. Crawford, and he went to the scene of the accident and came on to this city with the corpse last night, which was taken to Fies' undertaking establishment.

The remains were put in shape for burial and taken away on Erie train 12 at 4:45 this morning to Mansfield, and from there were transferred for Newark.

MR AND MRS ALLEN AT HOME

They Receive in Honor of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Allen of Paulding.

The doors of the splendid home of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Allen, on east Center street, were opened Tuesday night to receive a very brilliant company in honor of their son, Mr. Rob't G. Allen and bride, of Paulding, whose recent marriage was one of the noted society events of that city. The elder and the younger Mr. and Mrs. Allen received very graciously and were splendidly assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Allen, all of Paulding. The reception served in an informal way as a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Allen, who are soon to go into the South to make their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen's home is ever an hospitable and entertaining one, but on this occasion it was a scene of rare brightness. A more amiable and richly dressed company is seldom assembled, and the flow of sociability amid the soft glowing of lights and sweet strains from the harp, was exuberant. Indeed the grace and charming conviviality of the occasion was much remarked.

The refreshments were well selected, deliciously delicate and nicely served, being admirably suited to the splendid occasion. In fact nothing was lacking to enhance the excellence of the event and Mr. and Mrs. Allen, as their departing guests assured them, extended one of the most elegant receptions that Marion's young people have had the pleasure of enjoying.

SCHUBERT QUARTET COMING

The Second Entertainment of the Lecture Course to be Given Nov. 21.

The Schubert Male Quartette, which is to appear at Music Hall, Friday evening, Nov. 21st, under the auspices of the Irving-Longfellow societies of the Marion High School, comes with an unbroken record of successes for the past six years, during which time nearly 800 concerts have been given.

The repertory of the Schuberts is noted for its purity and variety, comprising the sacred, the classic, sentimental, descriptive and the humorous. There is no doubt but their coming will be a rare musical occasion to Marion people.

The Schubert Quartette is highly commended by the press and public. The Nashville American has this to say of these artists.

"Such impressions as these singers make on the human mind and heart are not evanescent and easily forgotten, and the different numbers of this program, taking in all phases of music, the pathetic, the religious, the ballad and humorous form, each of them sympathetically rendered, created among the audience a feeling of intense pleasure and satisfaction, which showed itself in frequent and rapturous applause."

The First Step.

Perhaps you are run down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into nervous prostration. You need a Nerve Tonic and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this great Nerve Tonic and Alterative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored, and the liver and kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50 cents, at Flocken's drug store

DAUGHTERS OF EVE.

Julia Ward Howe has been elected president of the Society for the Advancement of Women.

Mrs. Ella M. Gifford, of New England, has presented $30,000 to the Richmond Retreat for the Sick.

Duchesse d'Uzes is still a millionaire, despite the fact that she has spent millions in the Royalist cause.

Louisa Bonynge, daughter of the San Francisco millionaire, C. W. Bonynge, is completely paralyzed from the hips down.

An Indian girl named Susan La Flesh has graduated from a New York medical school to practice among her tribe, the Omahas.

Mrs. Harrison has accepted the presidency of the recently organized society known as "The Daughters of the American Revolution."

Mrs. Stanley has refused to live in Africa, and has persuaded her husband to decline the governorship of the Congo, offered to him by the king of the Belgians.

Mme. Mimi de Fontenilliat, the sister of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, has abandoned her intention of going on the stage, and has become reconciled to her husband again.

Helen Hunt's grave, on Cheyenne mountain, is now marked by a heap of stones, every visitor to it casting two stones upon it, in accordance with the wish of the woman poet.

Miss Lou Cochrane, a compositor at Oregon City, successfully manipulates an engine that runs the presses, and thoroughly understands the workings of the machinery to the minutest detail.

Miss Harriet Colfax, a cousin of the late Vice President Colfax, has for nearly thirty years been keeper of the lighthouse at Michigan City, one of the most important beacons on Lake Michigan.

One of the beauties of the famous Comedie Francaise, of Paris, is Mme. Pierson. She is a blue eyed blonde, with luxuriant hair that Alexandre Dumas declared to be "made of woven sunbeams."

Mrs. Oscar Wilde is described as a plainly dressed little woman, with no distinguishing graces, and her only approach to æstheticism is her enormous Gainsborough hats, heavy with drooping feathers.

Miss Louise Baker is the pastor in charge of the old North church of Nantucket. Before entering the pulpit she took a thorough course in theology. She is now a powerful preacher and a graceful writer.

An Irish lady, Miss Eleanor Fleury, a member of an ancient Waterford family, has been admitted to the degrees of bachelor of arts, bachelor of medicine and bachelor of obsterics of the Royal University of Ireland.

HINTS FOR THE TOILET.

Thorough and frequent bathing is the best means of keeping the complexion pure and clean

Bathe the lips occasionally with a little alum water, followed by a little camphor ice or glycerine.

When the hands are stained use salt and lemon juice; this will take off stains and render the hands soft and white.

To prevent that shine to the skin with which so many are annoyed, especially in warm weather, use a little camphor in the water when bathing the face.

To strengthen the hair, dissolve an ounce of borax and one ounce of camphor in two quarts of water. Wash the hair with this twice a week, clipping the ends occasionally.

A good camphor ice is made of one ounce of spermaceti, one ounce of camphor, one ounce of almond oil, one-half cake of white wax; melt all together and turn into moulds.

For chapped lips dissolve some beeswax in a little sweet oil by heating together gently. Apply to the lips several times a day and avoid wetting them as much as possible.

A good remedy for sunburn is a wash made of twelve ounces of elder flower water, six drams each of soda and pulverized borax. This is said to make the skin very soft and clear.

An excellent cold cream may be made of an ounce of white rose perfume, a half ounce of spermaceti, a half pint of rose water, and sweet almonds enough to make a paste; beat all together well.

Common horse radish grated into a cup of sour milk, thin strained, is said to be an excellent lotion for removing freckles. An ounce of lemon juice in a pint of rose water will also answer the same purpose. Both are harmless and good.

If the face has become roughened by the wind, sponge it often with equal parts of rose water and brandy. Do not use toilet washes containing much alcohol, as they are quite apt to produce harmful results. The alcohol parches the skin, renders it brittle and impairs its nutrition.

When the face is usually pale bathe it in tepid water, rubbing briskly with a Turkish towel. Then apply every day the following preparation: Four ounces of rose water, two ounces of glycerine and one once of diluted liquid ammonia. Rub it well into the skin for about three minutes and then wipe off with a soft towel.

A perfectly harmless face lotion is the following: Take seeds of pumpkin, melon, gourd and cucumbers and pound them to a powder, adding fresh cream to dilute the powder, then add sweet milk enough to make a thin paste; a few drops of lemon juice must be added. Apply this to the face when retiring.—Good Housekeeping.

—An extra north bound freight train on the C., H. V. and T. broke down just on this side of Radnor, about 15 miles south of here, and delayed the north bound morning passenger train several hours at this point. —Kansas City Star The German comedian, Chas. A. Loder, began a week's engagement at the Midland theater last night to the biggest house of the season, in his very funny and musical absurdity, "Hilarity." It is well named, as there is hilarity all the way through the piece. Loder and his company gave intense satisfaction to the audience in the theatre. Loder acted and sang and told his jokes and otherwise made merry in his well-remembered style. He has one of the most capable companies yet seen in a farce-comedy. It will be a big week for the Midland, and it should be, as the Hilarity company deserves it.

A Valuable Recipe for Washing Fluid.

Take one pound of sal soda, and a half pound of unslacked lime, put them in a gallon of water, boil twenty minutes and let it stand till cool, then drain off and put it in a stone jug or jar. Soak your dirty clothes over night, or until they are wet through, then wring them out and rub on plenty of soap, and to one boiler of clothes, well covered with water, add one teaspoonful of washing fluid. Boil half an hour briskly, then wash them thoroughly through one suds, and rinse well with water, and your clothes will look better than the old way of washing twice before boiling.

This is an invaluable recipe, and I do want every woman to try it. I think with a patent wash-tub to do the little rubbing, the washerwoman might compose herself on the lounge and let the washing do itself. The woman who can keep a secret has known this a year or two, but the husband told it while on an electioneering tour. This is a recipe worth $1000, given to every one whose duty it is to do laundry work.
